

RURAL EDUCATION EXPERIMENTS IN THE KINDERSLEY DISTRICT

Winnipeg.—The Manitowish Press has published the following article in connection with the kindersley Rural Supervisory Area.

There does not seem to be an avil chous in the whole Kindersley area, at least so far as the supervisory system is concerned. The unanimity is almost unique.

We look forward to Miss Grant's visit, explained one of the teachers. "It is a bit lonesome teaching in a country school with no one with whom we can discuss things that are professional difficulties. The inspector only gets around once or twice a year and he has so much to do. Miss Grant comes three or four times and stays all day. She has been through this herself, and so understands. Perhaps she has a new suggestion to make; perhaps she has brought some new material; but she has anything tangible to offer or not, somehow when she goes away one finds oneself with new enthusiasm. The old plodding routine feeling is gone and you are left with the idea that your school counts."

At the beginning of the term the supervisor accepted the names of the grades in each subject. She talks over the curriculum with the teacher and helps her make her programme. She discusses with her the materials at hand and what can be made of them and what can be obtained from the provincial and federal governments.

During subsequent visits she consults with the teacher over certain weaknesses of some of the pupils and makes suggestions for new approaches. She brings material, pictures and the like for the junior grades, or suggests where such can be obtained. She helps with the organization of play. If the teacher is troubled about some subject, the supervisor teaches a class. She carries help from one teacher to another. And she makes a determined effort to get the round peg into the round hole.

Many teachers who might otherwise be handicapped and discouraged are a triumphant success. One board was greatly troubled because the teacher was quiet, easily managed children of his school, was about the Prussian order. The next evening the little folks and paralyzed them with her arrogant manner.

Along the way was a teacher, exactly the opposite type, gentle and rather lacking in disciplinary qualifications. Her confidence over with energy, took advantage of the situation, not to the raising of her academic standards, but to the exchange of teachers is indicated, and will be smoothly and painlessly effected.

There is the getting together of the teachers on Saturday mornings for professional—and personal—talks. If the country school suffers from isolation, so does the country teacher.

"For the young teacher the system is invaluable," commented one of the teachers of the area. "It is for that matter for all of us. Up to Christmas I wasn't sure for the first time how long you have taught. It is like new life to find someone as interested as you are and on whom you can depend. It makes me feel that you have a friend on whom you can call any time. The school in question had the same good word. "I have been troubled for a long while," he said, "I simply hadn't the time myself with this busy territory. The supervisor is the gap."

In Saskatchewan according to the act, if there is a devoted Grades Nine and Ten must be taught in the school. This means that some country schools have ten grades. To help out the Department of Education has instituted a correspondence course which supplies outlines of the lessons. The teachers are required to correct the exercises.

There are 3,133 in Grade Nine under this system, 1,712 in Grade Ten and 162 in Grade Eleven. These are in connection with the one room schools. For those out of school districts there are correspondence work. But in the rural school it means a heavy burden for the teacher. Undoubtedly the correspondence courses are a tremendous help, but here again the supervisor is a real asset in the teacher to arrange the work to the small grades were not be sacrificed to the higher ones. In a few instances the school boards have objected to the courses—for which there is no charge—saying that they have said the teacher to teach the grades. But those boards are not in the Kindersley area. There they are out to make their schools successful and if the government has anything to say to that, they will say it to the superintendent, not to the teacher.

Only one year, the supervisory system has run. Under the provincial act the experiment will run for three years. The majority of the boards concerned desire to terminate the experiment they may wish to the Department. But this is very far from any such desire, for Kindersley area convinced the supervisory system as practiced there is ushering in a new day of education.

HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL RETURNS FROM BRITAIN

Toronto.—Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, returned from his tour of the provinces in the Alberta Legislature of Cochrane, Brown & Co. Ltd. arrived in Toronto from the trip. He made a group of friends to British Columbia and the Continent. He said they were favored with the best of weather and had a splendid opportunity to see British agriculture and livestock. To the question, "What about Canadian cattle in the British Market?" Mr. Marshall replied that his party had a good chance to look into this business, as in the party were members of the Canadian Cattle Raisers' Association, who were in the business of shipping livestock dealers, who went across with the object of arranging some export trade on their own account. Mr. J. McIntyre of Asquith, Alberta, one of Western Canada's most prominent ranchers, who probably exported more of his own cattle last April, and Mr. J. McIntyre of Asquith, Alberta, one of Western Canada's most prominent ranchers, who probably exported more of his own cattle last April.

GAINS IN A HURRY

Manitowish, England—July 27
Larry Gains, Toronto, colored boxer, who holds the Canadian heavy weight title, knocked out Hans Bauman, champion of Switzerland in the first round of a scheduled 15 round bout here tonight.

The bout lasted only two and a half minutes, but that was time enough for Gains to inflict considerable punishment on the Swiss heavyweight, who sustained among other injuries, a broken nose.

Overcoming the weaknesses of Bauman's defense at the outset, Gains knocked him down for a count of six. As soon as Bauman got to his feet he was floored for the full count and a volley of rights and lefts to the head and body.

PICK-UPS

Not that you will find any of them battling in clean positions, but major league pitchers apparently are getting away from the old theory that attending solely to their batting stances is their bit. I used to be quite a feat in the old days when a pitcher won his own game with a bare hit or two, but it's becoming commonplace in the majors today. Of course, a hurler does play to do more than to bring time, but it doesn't appear to hamper a pitcher's effectiveness any if he tries to do more than when he goes to bat. The number of good hitting pitchers has increased threefold in the past five years and managers probably will continue to give their hurlers plenty of practice with the bat. There used to be a time when a pitcher wasn't even expected to know how to lay down a bunt, but those days have gone, too.

Take the case of Westy Perrell, Cleveland's useful motion artist. Perrell not only is a whale of a pitcher, but he's more than an average hitter. He has won many of his own games with his bare hits and like Red Lucas, of the Cincinnati Reds, and George Uhle, of the Detroit Tigers, is used frequently as a pinch hitter.

There are plenty of other pinch players who are dangerous at the plate. They include Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox, Hitting and Sherid, of the New York Yankees; Heinemann, Thurston and Clark, of the Brooklyn Dodgers; Sweetland, Root and Smith of the Chicago Cubs; Matuszowski and Houtlet of the New York Giants; Barnshaw and Hoyt of the Philadelphia Athletics; Crowder and Malberry, of the Washington Senators; Kremer and Brann, of Pittsburgh; Zachary, of the Boston Braves and Silas Johnson of Cincinnati.

KID CHOCOLATES

COMEBACK

"Kid Chocolate," of Cuba, once rated as the greatest leaver of his weight in the world, and sprang out of a place in the sun, took it on the nose through the old evil that has filled the best of fighting men that the game has even known. Fast living and training, and soft food finally spent defeat for him in the form of the little Englishman "Kid Dore."

who handed him his first defeat. He immediately lost confidence, and in a short time was beaten by Paul Lachue. For two years after that he dropped out of the limelight, and finally returned to Cuba, retraining his arms again in a heavier class. Now his victory over Henry Bauman, of Philadelphia, places him again in the class of ringmen that can stage a comeback. He still retains his rapid right, that has been the downfall of more than one good man. In the battle with Henry Bauman he literally cut his opponent to ribbons and made the fight decidedly one-sided. The bigger little Cuban took the master, who was born in Louisiana, Martin, climbed a cage of 112 fights with winning, in his championship, something that he failed to accomplish when he was in his greatest winning streak. There is little doubt now that the colored boy's services will be in demand in the future.

HEARD ON THE STREET

John D. Rockefeller, Jr. tells the following incident:

I sat one night over my Shakespeare when a sentence popped up that puzzled me. I said to my father, who was sitting next to me, "What is the meaning of this quotation, 'There is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune.' What kind of tide would that be?"

"Tied down to business, Son," said Father.

Then there is the story of the kid who went to the country to see his grandmother for a visit and saw some ducks wading around, and shouted, "Oh, granny, look! the birds that just got out of a rumble seat!"

"Do you know, darling," said Herb, "you are so clever and so charming and so brilliant that at times I feel almost embarrassed to your presence."

"But dearest," she replied, smilingly, "you mustn't, really you mustn't."

"Oh, I dare say I'll get over that feeling when I know you better," said Pastor Brown.

"Rastus, how is it you have given up going to church?" asked the pastor.

"Well, um," replied Rastus, "is the way I take to an active part in it. I used to pass the election basket, but they give de job to Joe Brown, who just returned from over there."

"In recognition of his heroic service I suppose."

"No, sah, I reckon he got dat job in recognition of his having lost one of his limbs."

The Ford Victoria

A NEW FORD BODY TYPE OF DISTINCTIVE BEAUTY

The sweeter, latest addition to the wide variety of Ford body types is the distinguished Victoria. It marks a new degree of beauty and of value in a low-price car.

The striking lines of the Ford Victoria are especially apparent in the graceful sweep of the straggler, lower top, the slanting windshield and the curving hood back, with the spare wheel set at a conforming angle. There is a suggestion of continental design lines in the shape and size of the side windows and the intimate, four-passenger interior arrangement.

The comfortable, deeply cushioned seats are upholstered in luxurious mohair. Appointments and hardware reflect the manner of a custom-built car.

Another appreciated feature of the new Ford Victoria is a choice of attractive body colors. They complement its fresh new lines and combine and help to give it distinctive place on every highway.

CANADIAN PRESS
STONGLY URGES
ROYAL COMMISSION

The Beaulieu scandal which was brought into the limelight by R. Gaudin, member of Acadia, as stated very efficiently by E. J. Gaudin, member for New River is surely creating no end of interest throughout Canada.

It is generally felt that the report that has been tabled is not complete and that a Royal Commission would have much greater powers and would produce more evidence that would be highly interesting to the Canadian public.

The Toronto Globe says "Before the people are through they may convince the politicians - and the party organizations - that there is a good deal of concern throughout the country over the maintenance of independence and integrity in the public life of Canada. It is encouraging to all anxious to see where the clamorous news came up - thoroughly, efficiently, impartially - find the call for the appointment of a judicial Royal Commission growing general and increasingly insistent."

Unlike Mr. Robert Gaudin, M.P. the man who made the charges, the vast majority of citizens are far from satisfied with a conclusion which merely registers that "positive evidence was brought out that Beaulieu had paid out certain funds." They desire to know - and are entitled to know - the why and the wherefore of it all. They desire to see both party leaders take the witness stand. They desire to know from Mr. King who authorized the Liberal approach to Beaulieu and on what grounds. They desire to know what he is going to do, if any thing, to purge the party of the stigma which disgraces it. They desire to know from Mr. Bennett whether it is true, as Mr. Sweeney testified, that "a proposal was made to me this morning to resign" to the Conservative fund, and who authorized the "proposal." They desire to know, as intimated by Mr. Wauchope, whether Mr. Bennett refused gift and if so, what action if any, he took to disclose and put a stop to such practices. And they desire to know all about the "gentlemen's agreement" regarding campaign contributions to party funds, which the Toronto Conservative organ printed was "suggested" in Ottawa. They want the appointment of a judicial Royal Commission with authority to investigate all recent campaign contributions - from Beaulieu or other sources - and to receive public considerations from politicians and parties.

The vigor and the unanimity with which the press of this Province is voicing editorially the demand of the public is heartening. There is no hiding of words - no attempts at apologizing for the pitiful, partial and partisan performance of the Parliamentary Committee and its counsel. The St. Catharines Standard puts it boldly and bluntly when it says: "In the narrative the committee has adjourned with many more witnesses to be called. The committee will not be satisfied with that. It is not satisfied with the fact that it is not a complete picture. Let the whole facts of this amazing deal, either by Royal Commission or otherwise. A majority report of Conservatives and a minority report by Liberals is not the proper outcome of one of the most amazing scandal inquiries in Canadian political history."

Equally vigorous and plain spoken is the Peterboro' Examiner which voices its convictions as follows:

Too much has been disclosed public confidence has been too severely shaken to justify placing the responsibility for uncovering the whole truth of this amazing transaction upon the shoulders of a small Parliamentary Committee, the members of which cannot fail to be swayed by thoughts of party advantage. What is to be gained from the findings of a committee of the kind which is almost certain to present majority and minority reports, in which each group will try to protect its own part and condemn the other? Nothing but a fully empowered Royal Commission will satisfy the Canadian people that an earnest effort has been made to get at the real facts in this scandalous affair. "The people of Canada are entitled to more information than is being brought out at this probe with regard to political money chests," declares the Chatham News in calling for "the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into the whole question," adding:

The ordinary man reading the evidence has the feeling that there are circumstances behind the collection of election funds of at least two parties in this country that he would like to know, and, if

BILL BOARDS
IN COMPETITION WITH NEWSPAPERS

Here's a good story taken from an exchange: An editor and a merchant were discussing the virtue of billboard advertising. The merchant contended that more people read billboards than the newspaper. After a lengthy conversation in which neither man would give in, the man parted. The next week the merchant came trotting down to the newspaper office wanting to know why the editor's wife's mother was not in the paper, especially after he had seen the copy was taken to the newspaper office. "Well," said the editor, "I knew you wanted the editor's wife's mother, so I took it out and mailed it on the billboard." Just think it over.

Not much better, judging by the disclosures of some years ago. The Owen Sound Sun Times declares that "there still remains much to be explained, and a Royal Commission of High Court or Supreme Court Judges, it seems to me, would have to be employed in order that nothing might be overlooked, and, in the interests of the people of Canada, the true facts should be brought to light. Reflections have been cast on both the Liberal and the Conservative parties, and the leaders of these parties should be given a full opportunity of clearing the air and explaining the only reasonable way out."

Many other influential Canadian newspapers are speaking out with considerable emphasis in the same strain. It is a fine thing for a country that its press so generally
